The Road to MedBiquitous 2020

This is the first newsletter in a series and the AAMC wants to provide a way for the MedBiquitous community to contribute to the newsletter. Please feel free to join the conversation by using the hashtag #MedBiq when you tweet something of interest to the community. Your tweet will then join the next twitter moment on the Road to MedBiquitous 2020. You can catch up on all the #MedBiq tweets since I took the helm as director in June (plus some earlier conversations). Read more.

Call for Proposals Now Open!

The call for proposals for the MedBiquitous annual conference in June is open. Learn more.

If you would like to learn more about MedBiquitous or become involved in one of the many leadership and community engagement opportunities, please contact medbiq@aamc.org.
